CALIFORNIA TOWN, PAYING HEAVY TOLL FOR DELVING FOR EARTH'S RICHES, STANDS UNAFRAID BUT NOT DRY-EYED

JACKSON, CALIF., Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Jackson, mining town in the Mother Lode country, has paid the toll demanded of those who delve in the earth for gold and stands unafraid but not dry-eyed today.

Forty-seven of her men died in the Argonaut mine early on the morning of August 28, she learned last night, and today she awaits the bringing of their bodies from the rock tunnel that has been their tomb for three weeks.

It was California's worst mine disaster, in one of California's greatest gold producers and it was the hardest blow Jackson ever has had to suffer.

Three weeks ago last Sunday night men deep in the Argonaut, believed they smelled smoke. A shift boss took two men and went to investigate. They found the shaft afire at the 3,600 foot level. Then began the work of fire fighting which merged into one of rescue, for the fire closed the shaft and prevented the escape of the miners. Men came from all over the west to offer their services. The Kennedy Mining Company, operators of an adjoining shaft, sunk the bitterness of a law suit in its willingness to be of service and loaned all its property and facilities to the work of rescue.

Desperate Efforts To Reach Men

For many weary days rescue crews drove through the choked tunnel that once had connected the two mines or battered at the rock separating one of the Kennedy's drifts from the Argonaut's 4,200 foot level. Early yesterday a drill was driven through the last barrier of rock into the Argonaut.

Sweating shoulders and unbreakable wills drove steel picks at the rock until this hole was enlarged so that a rescue crew could pass, and all day exploration went on without any result.

The levels were clear, there was no sign of any miner left in them, either dead or alive. The rescue men turned their attention to exploring the cross cuts and drifts leading from the tunnels already traversed. In one they found a bulkhead that had not been there when the miners went below three weeks ago.

The rescuers pressed on. They found another bulkhead, not built of planks and timbers and stuffed with torn clothing like the first, but erected of earth, rock and debris. And then came word that rescuers had broken through the bulkhead and that the bodies of 42 men had been found and counted.

Not long after word came up that the other five also had been found dead.

Jackson Takes Blow Calmly

Jackson took the blow calmly and found comfort in the knowledge gained from notes left by two of the men and from the reports of rescuers regarding the men's work before they died, that a quick, merciful death had come to them instead of agonies of starvation. Records scrawled on paper by one man and scratched on a timber by another, showed they had lived but little more than three hours after erecting their pitiful barricades.

A note read as follows:

"3 a. m. gas bad." The same note bore a scrawled figure "4," apparently indicating the same man had attempted to leave word for those who might come after, of the condition of the mine at that hour.

Mine officials declared that the condition of the cross cut behind the bulkhead was such that life could not have been sustained there by the entrapped men for more than five hours.

Cool To The End

The bodies were piled one on top of another and decomposition had progressed so far that identification was impossible, Pickard said.

The officials said the mute evidence of the men's struggles showed they were 47 of the most cool-headed men imaginable.

Sixteen of the entrapped miners removed their clothes to provide material for stuffing the cracks in the wooden barrier, hastily constructed. Mine officials said that death had come to the entrapped men painlessly. The gases, they said, would produce first a lethargy then a coma and finally death.

Difficult To Recognize Victims

Identification will be difficult. The length of time since they died, the temperature of their casual tomb, the lack of the clothing they had torn off to stuff into the cracks in their first bulkhead, combined to remove from most of the bodies any distinguishable characteristics.

The Red Cross has received a fund of $8,000 for the miners' dependents, and it is estimated that the California state compensation insurance fund will pay an average of approximately $4,200 to dependents.

Red Cross officials said $10,000 was provided by the Argonaut for temporary relief.

A revision in California mining safety laws will be urged in the next legislature, according to Fletcher Hamilton, state mineralogist. He said he thought it would be feasible to have independent exits and to have underground safety stations, with a separate source of supply of air and supplies of food and water.

Storm Rages At Doorne Over The Ex-Kaiser's Marriage Plan

DOORNE, Holland, Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Frederick Wilhelm and other members of the German royal family still are at Doorne and stormy conferences are said to be occurring daily with the ex-kaiser, who is bent on carrying out the plan of marriage to Princess Von Schoenau-Carolath. It is declared, although the people of Doorne had heard nothing till today regarding any announcement of their betrothal.

The former emperor and the princess meanwhile are continuing frequent promenades in the castle park.

Princess Hermine is 35 years of age and is the mother of five children, the eldest of which is fourteen. The princess owns a large estate at Sieraboro-Silvia. Ever since reports of the Kaiser's engagement to her have been circulated, monarchists have taken a contrary attitude to the match. They have opposed it principally because the princess is not of royal birth. Her rank is what is described as "durchschnitt," which is just below that of royal grade, but still above that of a noble lady. Before her marriage to Prince Jean of Schoenau-Carolath, who died in April, 1920, she carried the title of Serene Highness as Princess Hermine of Reuss.

Princess Hermine is tall and beautiful. She has a graceful countenance and displays a rare, quiet dignity. She is blonde and her luxuriant hair encircles her face of exquisite sweetness. She has been a guest at the former's castle at Doorne on many occasions. It is reported that the Kaiser was first impressed by the princess, following her

England To Act Independently
LONDON, Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The British cabinet takes the attitude that Great Britain will undertake military action alone if necessary, independent of France and Italy, to protect the freedom of the Dardanelles, it was authoritatively stated after this forenoon's protracted cabinet meeting.

An official communique issued from Downing street this afternoon, declares in substance that the government stands by its pronouncement of policy issued to the press Saturday, notwithstanding newspaper reports to the contrary.

France Not To Use Troops

PARIS, Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The French cabinet today unanimously approved what is characterized as the "pacifist" policy of Premier Poincare in the near east and the withdrawal of all the French troops from Asia Minor to the French side of the straits of the Dardanelles.

The cabinet went firmly on record as being opposed to any form of military action as a means of settlement in the Turkish-Greek situation. It emphasized the necessity of reaching an agreement through diplomatic channels and eventually by a peace conference.

Allotment Of 33rd Masons Decreased

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Today was the most important of the six day convocation of the Supreme Council, 33rd degree, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Free Masonry for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the United States, for it is tonight that the 33rd degree, the highest honor that can be attained in Masonry, will be conferred upon approximately 142 candidates.

Among the candidates are Governors A. J. Groeschel, of Michigan, and C. E. Sprunt, of Pennsylvania, and former Governor Charles Denan, of Illinois.

President Warren G. Harding also was to have had this honor conferred upon him, but owing to the illness of his wife, was unable to attend. However, it is said, the degree probably will be conferred upon Mr. Harding at an extraordinary convocation to be held in the near future.

The number of thirty-third degrees allotted to each consistory will be decreased hereafter, it was announced. Heretofore each consistory has been permitted to name one thirty-third candidate for each 100 members initiated into the fourteenth degree. This number was changed to 250.

Rules Court Has No Right To Interfere; White Scores Decision

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—By a vote of five to two the Ohio supreme court today ordered Secretary of State Harvey C. Smith, to place the beer and light wine constitutional amendment on the ballots at the November election. The order was issued on a writ of mandamus filed by the Association Opposed to Prohibition, and was fought by the Anti-Saloon League, which has intimated that it will carry the fight to the United States Supreme court.

The dissenting opinion in the case was reported to have been handed down by Chief Justice Marshall and Judge Benson W. Hough.

Under the court's order the people of Ohio will vote on November 7th as to whether they wish beer and light wines sold in Ohio again. Beer and wine, however, will not become available to Ohioans, regardless of the vote, because of the Volstead law which takes precedence over state laws.

Courts Not To Interfere

In making its decision, the supreme court asserted "it has become the established law of this state that no officer or tribunal may interfere either with the enactment of law or the amendment of the constitution, while the same is in process."

The amendment was ruled off the ballot recently by Secretary of State Smith on the grounds that it would not mean anything if adopted as it would contravene the federal prohibition laws and that it would cause a large and needless expenditure of the taxpayers' money.

White Scores Decision

The decision of the supreme court in deciding to put the beer proposal on the ballot will give the outlawed brewers and bootleggers an opportunity to undertake to legalize in Ohio what the federal law prohibits," said a statement issued by James A. White, Ohio superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League shortly after hearing of the decision.

"It will also have the effect of breaking down law enforcement in Ohio. We call upon the loyal citizens of the state, men and women to help repeal at the polls this attempted nullification of the supreme law of the land." (The Ohio court's action today consisted in overruling a demurrer filed by the state to the request of the Association Opposed to Prohibition for a writ of mandamus, compelling the secretary of state to place the amendment on the ballot.)

Question Not New One

The question is not a new one, the decision declared. Three former cases where courts acted in like manner on the same question were cited.

The decision said: "It has thus become the established law of this state that no officer or tribunal may interfere with the enactment of law or the amendment of the constitution while the same is in process, upon the ground that such legislation, if enacted or constitutional amendment, if adopted will be in conflict with the constitution state or federal. These questions are and must necessarily be reserved for consideration and determination after the legislative or constitutional making body shall have fully performed its functions, and such new law or constitutional amendment shall have become effective. The demurrer is overruled and the writ allowed."

Church Organ, Source Of Bitter Wrangle, Taken Out And Burned

HENDERSON, KY., Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The Christian church at Rorality, Union county, recently installed an organ after a several months wrangle among the congregation. Today a mass of smoldering embers was all that remained of the organ. It had been removed from the church, taken into the church yard, chopped to pieces and set on fire after coal oil had been poured over the pieces.

Reports reaching here were to the effect that a woman member of the congregation, irritated because of the installation of the organ, had destroyed it. Court action will be taken soon.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Clarence J. Neal, prominent Cleveland business man, has been appointed state fuel administrator by Governor Davis, under the emergency coal legislation passed by the legislature last week. Mr. Neal will assume his duties at once.

To Establish Fair Coal Prices

The governor coincidentally announced that fair coal prices will be established under the new law at once and that operators have intimated to him that they will abide by the new fair price list. By the end of this week or the first of next, the full machinery of Ohio's new coal administration act will be in effect, the governor's statement asserted.

Mr. Neal, was reported en route to the state capital from his home in Cleveland to talk over the matter with Governor Davis.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—A constitutional amendment to deprive congress of the power of making tariff schedules has been proposed in the house by Representative Anson, Republican, New York. Strike Settlements On Other Roads Expected

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Adjustment of misunderstandings and differences which delayed expected settlement of the railway shippers' strike on some of the roads favorable to the Baltimore peace arrangements was apparent today.

There were rising hopes that Bert M. Jewell the ship crafts' leader, would iron out with officials of the New York Central lines differences which prevented an agreement between striking shippers and the roads which form the New York Central system.

These hopes were strengthened when the Southern Railway, the Mobile and Ohio, controlled by the Southern, and the Monon, fell in line with roads accepting the Baltimore plan and signed the agreement.

Battery L Holds Annual Reunion

Members of the gallant Battery L Light Artillery First Ohio and Thirty Third Regiment O. V. I. held their annual joint reunion Tuesday and it was concluded with a bountiful dinner at George Freshell's restaurant.

After the dinner had been served Dr. P. J. Kline acted as toastmaster and took charge of the meeting.

Before going to Freshell's a business meeting was held in Judge A. T. Holcomb's office in the Turkey building. A. Doll of Lucasville was re-elected commander. Judge Holcomb surrounded by veterans of the '65 conflict. He recalled the gallant deeds performed by those present and lamented the fact that the ranks of Battery L was being rapidly thinned out. While not many members were present today the reunion lost none of its past success and was hugely enjoyed.

C. & O. EMPLOYE ASSAULTED

The Ironman this morning said: Wm. C. Gerstman of 714 Chestnut street, employed by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway as machinist, was carried into the Wheeling Drug Store about 7:30 last night in a dazed condition after being struck on the head by some blunt instrument.

Gerstman was said to be employed by the C. & O. but was off duty due to illness when the strike started. About a week ago he returned to work. Last night he was picked up at the intersection of Fourth and Center streets. At the drug store it was found he had a gash on the side of his head approximately three inches long. His injury was dressed by Dr. Hummer and he was taken home in a taxi.

Although the accident happened on a brightly lighted thoroughfare, there was apparently no one last evening who could tell how he came by his injuries. While it was generally believed he had been assaulted and knocked in the head, there was no proof of this and others advanced the theory he may have been struck by a missile thrown by some one from a distance.

Miss Wilma Spriggs, who will be married the latter part of this month to Mr. Warren Townsend, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower recently at the home of the Misses Bess and Georgia Townsend, 2021 Seventeenth street. The rooms were prettily decorated with bright-colored fall flowers, and the evening was spent socially in games, music and contests. In the contest Rebecca Harg was awarded the prize and later a delicious refreshment course was served. A feature of the evening was the presentation of pretty gifts to the charming bride-to-be.

Later the guests were invited into the dining-room, where ice cream and cake were served. The table was decorated with a large basket of flowers and much merriment was caused by cutting the wedding cake and hunting for the various articles hidden within. Places were marked for the Misses Wilma Spriggs, Clara Fields, Dortha Butler, Madeleine Schmuck, Elizabeth Orlett, Marie McLaughlin, Doris Blair, Virginia Judd, Inez Martin, Jennie Dodge, Hudd Bailey, Maudie Hunt, Dortha Pressler, Pearl Smith, Messrs. Garland Kemp, Roy Scott, Don McKeown, Richard Haug, Ansel Lamb, Marcus and Russell McFarren, Harold Williams, Elmer Bolander, Chester Johnson, Raleigh Bailey, Edward Rankston, Warren, Elie and Lefty Townsend.

Miss Spriggs is a charming and popular young lady and is now employed as a stenographer at the Vulcan Last Company.

All departed at a late hour, wishing the prospective bride and groom much happiness in their future life.

Milam, daughter Nollie and son Randall, of Fairview; Mr. and Mrs. Rose Milam, son Edwin and daughter Carmen of Lucasville; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Milam of Irwin and Mrs. Elmore at home. Three persons were injured Monday evening, one painfully when a touring car driven by R. W. Riddle of 1317 Lincoln street and occupied by his wife and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Maxon, collided with a touring car operated by the Stude Bros. Motor Bus company of Chillicothe. The collision occurred three miles north of Lucasville. Mrs. Riddle was thrown through the windshield of her machine.

Mr. and Mrs. Riddle and Mrs. Riddle's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Maxon, were the occupants of the touring car and were on their way home from a visit at Chillicothe when the accident occurred.

Two buses of the Chillicothe transportation firm were traveling north on Scioto Trail, and the Willys-Knight machine was coming in the opposite direction. The first bus had stopped to discharge passengers, and the driver of the second bus directly behind, one of the owners of the line, swung out and drove ahead, hitting the Riddle machine which he had not seen. Fortunately, he was not driving fast and he was able to check his car in time to prevent a probably fatal disaster.

The big bus of the Chillicothe firm is temporarily out of commission and two touring cars are being used until repairs are made to the bus and it was the second one, which hit the Riddle car.

Mrs. Riddle was severely cut by glass about the face and sustained numerous scratches about the body, besides the severing of an artery in her nose. Her mother was badly shaken up and in addition, received minor bruises. Mr. Riddle and the occupants of the other machine were uninjured.

The axle of the Riddle machine was badly bent but Mr. Riddle managed to make his way to Portsmouth, in the crippled machine. His wife was attended by Dr. J. N. Ellison. The fender of the bus was bent but otherwise it was not damaged.

Plan For Rally Day

Optimism was the keynote of the enthusiastic meeting of the officers and teachers of the United Brethren Sunday School held at the church last evening and presided over by the new superintendent, Marion W. Prosch.

Plans were made for a larger attendance of the school, and judging from the interest manifested, some splendid accomplishments will be recorded during the coming year. Rally day will be observed in the school the second Sunday in October and it is hoped that by that time arrangements will be completed whereby the Auto Race across the states will be started.

The plan to revive the meetings of the teachers and officers was favorably acted upon and henceforth they will meet in monthly session. The teachers will have special messages to give their classes on next Sunday morning and it is earnestly desired to have a good attendance at this time so that all may be imbued with the wonderful spirit which so manifested itself at the meeting held last night.

Watch the little folks speed home for Kellogg's Corn Flakes

"Madder, I always win the race when I carry home Kellogg's Corn Flakes. I can't hardly wait till I have some quick, madder!"

It's great to see child-enthusiasm for Kellogg's; great to see every one in the family enjoy their crisp crunchiness and wonderful flavor! To sit down before a heaping bowlful of these joyous oven-browned "sweet-hearts-of-the-corn" and some milk or cream—and fresh fruit, if it's handy—is just about the very last word in appetizing appeal! And, your good taste will prove that!

Kellogg's Corn Flakes ought to be superior—they are the original Corn Flakes! Kellogg's are never tough or leathery; never hard to eat; never a disappointment!

Be certain to get Kellogg's—the delicious kind of Corn Flakes in the RED and GREEN package—because none are genuine without the signature of W. K. Kellogg, the originator of Toasted Corn Flakes.

Speaking Of House Dresses

There is just one kind that we mention and that is the Barmon.

We have carried them so long, sold so many of them, and talked about them so much that it seems to us like every woman knows all about them. We have found out, however that every woman does not know about them because we occasionally see some woman wearing a house dress that is not of Barmon make, and we can only conclude that she never heard tell of this wonderful house dress.

These dresses have such desirable features as a tuck in the hem, the value of which you will recognize immediately. There is also the adjustable belt which produces a perfect fit. Then there are the reinforced arm-holes, not a bad feature you will admit, and also some extra pieces of material to use in patching when the garment finally does begin to wear.

These dresses come in gingham and percale in both light and dark, and in all sizes including extra large.

Prices range, $2.25 to $5.98.

Nurses Regulation Uniforms

We have just received a shipment of the Dixie make nurses' uniforms in white in all sizes, and can supply the profession with these high-class regulation garments at $3 to $5.50.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

For years the brilliant member of the English Secret Service had been known as ANDRE DUCHEMIN.

EVE DE MONTAIGNE, he confessed that he was the notorious crackman.

MICHAEL LANYARD, known to the police of the world as the LONE WOLF. But the confession came only after Eve de Montaigne had been robbed of her jewels while Lanyard was a guest in her chateau, recuperating from a bullet wound inflicted by the Apache from whom he had rescued Eve and her relatives.

Eve believes Lanyard innocent and accepts his offer to trace the jewels. His mind immediately leaps back to a strange visit to the chateau paid by a party consisting of WHITAKER MONK, his secretary, FRINUIT, the latter's brother, JULES, who acted as chauffeur, and the COUNT AND COUNTESS DE LORGNE. They asked clever questions about Eve's jewels and warned her of the Lone Wolf.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

The Lone Wolf Takes the Trail
Early in the afternoon Lanyard examined the safe without exciting comment in the household. He was nearly an hour thus engaged, but brought back to the drawing room only a face of disappointment.

"Nothing," he reported to Eve. "Evidently a gentleman of rigidly formal habits, our friend of last night—wouldn't dream of calling at any hour without his gloves on. However, I've been thinking a bit as well I hope to some purpose."
The woman nodded intently as he drew up his chair and sat down. "You have made a plan," she stated rather than inquired.

"I won't call it that, not yet. Assuming for the sake of argument that Mr. Whitaker Monk and his lot had a hand in this—"

"Ah, you think that?"
"I admit I'm unfair. But first they quarrel with my sense of the normal by being too confoundedly picturesque, too sharp and smart and glib. What right had they to make so many ambiguous gestures?"
"Leading the talk up to my jewels you mean?"

"I mean every move they made. Madame la Comtesse de Lorgne, whoever she is—must get her feet wet, an excellent excuse for asking to be introduced to your boudoir, so she may spy out the precise location of your safe."
"Then—Madame de Lorgne guiding the conversation by secret signals which I interpret—somebody recognizes me as the Lone Wolf, and you are obligingly warned that, if your jewels should happen to disappear it's more than likely the Lone Wolf will prove to be the guilty party."

"On the other hand, there's your ex-chauffeur—what's his name?"
"Albert Dupont. Is he the one of them, their employee or confederate?"
"I fancy not. I may be wrong, but I believe he is entirely on his own—quite independent of the Monk party."

"And your plan of campaign is based on this conclusion?"
"That's a big name—Lanyard's smile was diffident, a plea for suspended judgment on his lack of inventiveness—"for a lame idea. They hoped to shift suspicion on to my shoulders. Well, let them believe they have done so."

The waiting hostility developed in a sharp negative. "Ah, no."
"You will observe," he continued, lightly persuasive, "it is Andre Duchemin who will be accused, Madame, not Michael Lanyard, never the Lone Wolf! For when I say he will disappear tonight, I mean it quite literally: Andre Duchemin will nevermore be heard of in this world."

She had a smile quivering on her lips, yet shook her head.
"Monsieur forgets I learned to know him under the name of Duchemin."

If Madame, in her charity, means continuing to know me, I must be Michael Lanyard when she suffers to claim a little portion of her friend's ship."

"More than a little, monsieur, more than a little, friendship only."
"I know no way to thank you," he managed to say at last.

WOMAN TOO WEAK TO WALK

Now Works Nine Hours a Day.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Strength

Union Village, Vt.—"I was weak and nervous and all run-down. I could not walk across the floor without resting, and I had been that way for weeks. I saw your advertisement in the paper and after taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt the good it was doing me and I took seven more in all. Before I finished I was able to work nine hours a day in a steam laundry. I cannot say too much in favor of your medicine. I trust all sick and suffering women will take it. It has been two years since I took it and I am strong and well."—Mrs. L. A. GUIMANN, Union Village, Vermont.

This is only one of such letters we are continually publishing showing what Lydia E. Pinkham has done for women. Mrs. Guimann's letter should interest you.

Many women get into a weak, nervous, run-down condition because of ailments they often have. Such women should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the first sign of trouble.

A SHABBY, FURTIVE LITTLE RAT OF A MAN.

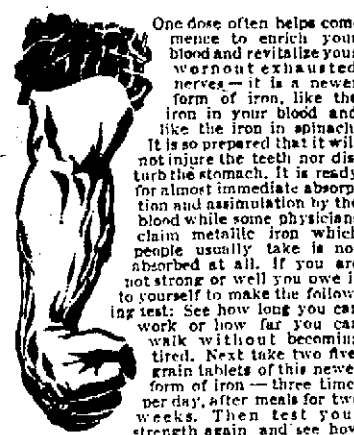

Lanyard had testimony to the thoroughness of the transformation in his looks twice within an hour.

The first was when, leaving the hotel he found himself suddenly face to face with Dupont.

The heavy little eyes of the thing comprehended him in a glance, and rejected him as of positively no interest to Albert Dupont, a complete stranger and a cheap one at that.

He re-entered the hotel and sought its restaurant, where the waiting

"For what?"
"For everything—kindness, charity, sympathy."

"What are those things?" she demanded with a nervous little laugh.
"Words! Just words that you and I use to hide behind, like timid children." She rose suddenly and offered him her hand. "But I don't think it's any use, my friend, I'm quite sure that neither of us is deceived. No; say nothing more; the time is not yet and—we both can wait. Only know I understand..... Go now"—her fingers tightened round his arm, don't stay away any longer than you must, don't be influenced by silly traditions, false and foolish standards when you think of me. Go now—she freed her hand and turned away—"but oh, come safely back to me, my dear."

Travels With an Assassin

LANYARD, gray with dust and weariness of twenty leagues of heavy walking trudged into the sleeping streets of the town of Tenenre and purchased a ticket for Lyons.

As the engine began to snort, a man detached from behind the tiny structure that housed the ticket office, galloped heavily across the platform, and with nothing to spare threw himself into the compartment immediately behind Lanyard.

This maneuver was performed so unexpectedly that Lanyard caught barely a glimpse of the fellow; but one glimpse was enough. It was Monsieur Albert Dupont who had failed to assassinate the then Andre Duchemin more than three weeks ago.

At Lyons fortune favored Lanyard. The station was well thronged, a circumstance which enabled him to keep inconspicuously close to his victim. Furthermore, Dupont was obviously looking for somebody, and so distracted.

Presently a shabby, furtive little rat of a man nudged his elbow, and Dupont followed him to a corner. Lanyard secured a berth and went about his business profoundly mystified. Beyond shadow of fair doubt Dupont was up to some new devilment, but Lanyard would be surprised if its nature failed to develop on the train or at least upon its arrival in Paris the next morning.

It was no later than seven in the evening when he left a room which he had engaged in a hotel and left it a changed man.

The pointed beard of Monsieur Duchemin was no more. The rough tawny walking-suit had been replaced by a blue serge.

The papers of Andre Duchemin were crisp black ashes in the fireplace of the room which Lanyard had just quitted, all but the letter of credit; and this last was enclosed in an envelope, to be sent to London by registered post with a covering note to request that the unpaid balance be forwarded in French bank notes to Monsieur Paul Martin, general delivery, Paris; Paul Martin being the name which appeared on an entirely new set of papers of identification which Lanyard had thoughtfully selected in the lining of the tweed coat before leaving London.

Long Arm of Coincidence took him by the hand and led him to a table immediately adjoining one occupied exclusively by Monsieur le Comte de Lorgnes.

But now, Lanyard told himself, one knew what had dragged Dupont in such hot haste to Lyons. Some how word had reached him, probably by telegraph, that monsieur le comte was waiting there to keep a rendezvous. And if you asked him, Lanyard would confess his firm conviction that the other party to the rendezvous would prove to be the person (or persons) who had effected the burglary at Chateau de Montalais.

But as time passed it became evident that there had been a hitch somewhere; de Lorgnes was fretting when Lanyard first saw him; before his dinner was half served his nerve was giving way.

At length, de Lorgnes called for his addition and fled the restaurant. Lanyard arrived in the foyer in time to see de Lorgnes settle his account and hear him instruct a porter to have his luggage ready for the next twelve express for Paris.

In the Gare de Lorgnes was wholly in despair. Half an hour later wave an unsteady but most dignified way back to the foyer of the hotel.

Lanyard returned to his room to get a new-bought traveling bag, and started for the train at foot.

Pendleton Is Acquitted

It required a jury in Common Pleas court Monday afternoon less than five minutes to return a verdict of not guilty in the case of William Pendleton, brought to trial under an indictment charging pocket-picking.

Pendleton was accused of extracting an empty pocket-book from the trousers of L. D. Porter while the latter was sleeping at the platform dance, near Ragsdown, on the night of Sept. 9 last.

Porter, the alleged victim, failed to appear to testify in the case and the jury evidently put little credence in the testimony adduced by the prosecution, taking but one ballot, which was unanimously for acquittal.

The defendant was represented by Attorney Theo. K. Funk, and Prosecutor Sheppard appeared for the state.

The Greens committee was instructed to secure a golf architect at the earliest possible moment to lay out the course following which the laying of water mains, filling and other preliminary work will be started. The building committee was also instructed to get the water supply arrangements started and completed this fall so there would be no delay in carrying out the work in the Spring.

The most optimistic feeling as to the successful outcome of the affairs of the Club within the means available was expressed by directors all of whom reported having heard favorable expressions from members and also from many who had expressed a desire to become affiliated with the club.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Miss Wise—They do say that a word to the wise is sufficient—well here's hoping.

I have always had a desire to become a clerk, stand back of the counter and wait on trade. Recently my desires have been fulfilled and I find that the anticipation was by far greater than the realization.

Aside from standing on our feet all day, we wait on trade, but seldom, it ever, do we have to wait on some one to wait on. Pick up this or that from your neatly arranged counter, turn it upside down, cross-wise, and all other kind of "Y's," and when you ask if they wish to buy something, they stare at the article down and say: "No, just looking around." Then the clerk must place the articles back where they belong in order to have her counter attractive for the next prospective buyer, who replies that she is "just killing time, thank you." It certainly would be commendable if there could be found one lady in Portsmouth who would not form a natural antipathy or disgust for her sex—were she to throw open her home for public inspection and have each one upset chairs, tables, etc., as they pass through, and make no attempt to replace them.

Such is the life of the clerk, and if the shoppers would be more lenient, tell the clerk what they want and let her pick out the article for them. Instead of them tearing things topsy-turvy and finally falling the clerk to the rescue after all. However, I'm sure these are all oversights on the part of the shopper and are not done intentionally, nor do I wish to encourage myself as I used to be the worst kind of "time killer" and "looker around." While experience is a dear teacher, my advice to every body affected with this malady would be to try clerking in some store at least three days and by that time she will have been entirely "cured."

A CLERK.

What you say is true to a certain extent, but you must remember that you are standing behind the counter to serve the public to the best of your ability, regardless of whether they want to buy anything or not. I don't know whether you realize it or not, but an indifferent clerk drives more customers away from a store than high prices or inferior goods. The fact that you get peeved when you see a prospective customer hesitate before your counter may be one reason why they don't buy from you. I know some people in this town who would rather do their shopping out of town than to buy from clerks whom they do not like. I hope you are not one of them. If you are, you are going to continue in your present position you will have to leave your feelings at home and have a pleasant smile and cordial greeting for all prospective customers, even if they are just killing time. They may not want something every time they come into the store, but they will know where to come when they are ready to buy it.

Peelies, O.—Dear Dolly—Will you please send me some odd names for a boy. We have a new baby at our house and want to give him an odd name.

MRS. D. L.

Odd names have gone out of style now and the good old-fashioned ones are being used again. My list of favorite names are: John, James, Robert, Richard, William, George and Dan. However, if you want to give him an odd name, maybe you can select one from this list: Norman, Wilber, Norbert, Jeremiah, Reginald, Warren, Erwin, Leo and Montford.

Dear Dolly—Could you give me the name of an orthopedic doctor in Cincinnati? I want to have a deformity corrected and I want to consult one and ask his advice about it.

TIMES READER.

Dr. A. H. Friedberg is a good one. He is located in the Pearl Street Market Bank Building, Cincinnati.

Dear Miss Wise—I wish you would inform me how to read my gas meter. My bills have been coming so thick and fast that I can't keep track of them. I know we do not burn much gas but the bills keep rolling in so I want to keep tab on them to see that I get all that is coming to me.

ANXIOUS READER.

Read from left to right. Subtract this from the number the reading of the month before, and you will have the consumption for the present month. Multiply this remainder by the price per cubic foot charged by the local company. For example the dial on the extreme left registers 5, the next 6, the next 1. The reading before gave 640, there the consumption would be 761 minus 640, or 121 thousand cubic feet. Multiply this by the price per cubic foot and the result will be the charge for the month.

SOCIETY

The ladies of Portsmouth turned out en masse yesterday afternoon and evening to view the new fall fashions being shown by a group of living models at the Columbia theatre. These beautiful young women were brought here from New York City by Marling's, under whose auspices the fashion show is being given. Another large crowd viewed the promenade this afternoon and it is expected that a capacity audience will see the living models this evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening. The young ladies who are acting as models are unusually attractive and show off the beautiful gowns to perfection. They are Miss Edna M. Brockhoff, Miss Alice Fitzmaurice, Miss Dorothy M. Poeper, Miss Loretta Moore, Miss Natalie Cates and Miss Gladys Brestell. Miss Cates is a beautiful blonde, Miss Brockhoff has auburn hair and the other four are perfect brunettes.

Mr. Fred N. Tynes has erected a special promenade platform for the models, which is different from the previous style shows. A platform extends from the stage out into the aisle and a spotlight follows each model so that the audience has a clear view of each garment worn.

The models show that the long skirt has come to stay, and judging from the models shown, everybody in Portsmouth will be wearing them before many months.

The popular length seems to be from five to six inches from the ground. The new silhouette is slim and straight. The gowns are created with soft graceful folds, giving height to the figure. Sleeves are in many lengths, while some evening gowns have no sleeves at all. Tight sleeves are also shown in some costumes.

Women who want to know what will be worn this fall and winter should not fail to visit the Columbia and see these up-to-date models. Among the gowns shown are the following:

French blue evening gown, beaded Georgette over silver cloth; coral chiffon velvet, beaded, French hand-made, dinner dress; Nile green beaded georgette, French hand-made evening gown; salmon pink, iridescent beaded French hand-made evening gown; white georgette, head embroidered, misses' evening dress; French blue lace and georgette dinner dress or semi-evening gown; Scotch mol wrap, squirrel collar and cuffs; Nussal cape wrap; Hudson Scotch mole wrap, squirrel collar and cuffs; black Pan re Laine coat, gray Caracul collar and cuffs; brown suit of Dure De Laine, beaver collar; blue Marcell suit with black wolf shawl collar; Sorrento blue veldyn suit, beaver trimmed; blue Marcell suit, beaver trimmed; taupe Dure De Laine, mole trimmed; brown veldyn suit, black Caracul trimmed.

A brilliant climax to the round of social festivities given for Miss Katherine Appel, who will be married this evening in the First Presbyterian church, to Mr. Glenn Edwards, was the formal dinner given last evening at seven o'clock by her mother, Mrs. George M. Appel, for the members of the bridal party, the out-of-town visitors here for the wedding and a few close relatives and friends.

All that clever artistic hands could do in the way of decorating was done, and in consequence the surroundings and appointments of the handsome Appel home were beautiful. The various rooms were adorned with an abundance of carnations, dahlias, roses, combined with smilax, which were artistically arranged in baskets and vases and placed at vantage points on the lower floor. The dining room was especially beautiful and effective and elaborate table appointments and decorations marked the dinner. The two long tables were set in snowy linen and handsome silver and maintained the excellent taste of the hostess.

At the bridal table places were marked for eighteen, while at a longer table covers were laid for fifty. A color motif of pink was detailed in all the appointments of the bridal table while green was effectively used in decorating the guest table. The central adornment of the bridal table was an artistic heart-shaped basket filled with pink roses and greenery, while place-cards and favors of nut baskets and wedding bells marked each place.

A beautiful Venetian love-boat fashioned out of green crepe paper, centered the guests' table, while favors, nut baskets and place-cards were carried out in green. The central decorations were relieved by silver tapers and candelabra placed to their advantage.

An appetizing five course menu was faultlessly served by the Mor-Can Catering Company of Cincinnati. The same caterers will serve the refreshment course at the reception this evening.

Dainty little flowers were given as favors for each course, while remembrances of handsome feather fans for the ladies, and cigarette holders for the men were presented each guest.

The dinner gowns worn by the ladies were the most splendid exhibited at any social function of the season, and the full evening dress of the men added to the perfection of the party.

Seated at the bridal table were Miss Katherine Appel, Miss Lena Appel, Miss Mary Stephan, Miss Louise Stephan of Cincinnati; Miss Thelma Rieky, Miss Alice Vincent, Miss Katherine Hall, Miss Edna Hancock, Miss Bess Turley, Winston Salem, N. C.

Mr. Glenn Edwards, Mr. Guy Edwards, Mr. Adrian Arganbright, Mr. Elwyn Eckhart, Mr. Keaton Johnson, Mr. Varner Altsman, Mr. Harry Doerr, Mr. Edward Carlie and Mr. George Ahrend.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Miss Lillian Arbenz, Wheeling, West Va.; Miss Josephine Douglas, Brookline, Mass.; Miss Gillie Ann Riley, Porto Rico; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shumway, Huntington, West Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Huntington, West Va.; and Miss Helen Dawson, Cincinnati.

One of the loveliest parties of the early fall season was the charming luncheon-bridge given this afternoon by Mrs. Harry C. Bugh, at her pretty home, 1216 Kinney's Lane, for the pleasure of her sister, Mrs. G. D. Babbitt, of Cleveland.

Attractive in every particular were the appointments for the party; pink and white roses and carnations adorned each room and everything was in keeping with the excellent taste of the hostess.

The table was most artistic in its setting, a color motif of pink and white being cleverly carried out in every detail and the service of a four course menu was unexcelled.

Those enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Bugh were the Misses Helen Rardin, Edna Marting, Lena Hancock, Mrs. I. H. Goodman, Mrs. Harry Revare, Mrs. James Breese, Mrs. Albert Marting, Mrs. Richard Tremper, Mrs. John Lowry, Mrs. F. E. Bower, Mrs. L. D. Huestis and the hostess and honor guest, Mrs. Bugh and Mrs. Babbitt.

At the luncheon three tables were arranged for bridge, and twenty-four found the guests seated for an absorbing game of auction at the conclusion of which handsome trophies were awarded for high and low scores. The affair was a very enjoyable one, with a gracious hostess and charming honoree.

Miss Cora Swabey has returned from a two weeks visit with relatives in Detroit, Mich. Miss Swabey resumed her work in the Security Bank yesterday.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

AMONG the Greeks we find his queer custom: immediately after the wedding ceremony the bride's father removes one of her slippers and hands it to the bridegroom.

The bridegroom touches her lightly upon the head with it in token of his ownership and authority. Then they repair to the wedding feast.

Note what beauty you have gained

For your sake and your family's sake, start making this test today. Then look next week and see the changes that occur.

Millions of people of fifty nations are now brushing teeth in this new way. Dentists everywhere are urging them to do it. You can see the results wherever you look—in teeth that glisten as they never did before.

Now see them on your own teeth. Go get this free tube at your store.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And, despite the tooth brush, they became almost universal.

Now millions combat it

Dental science has, for long, sought ways to fight that film. Two effective methods have been found. Able authorities, by careful tests, proved them beyond question. Now millions of people are using them daily, largely by dental advice.

One method acts to curdle film, the other to remove it. And this is done without the use of any harmful scouring agent.

A new-type tooth paste has been created, based on modern research. It includes some new essentials and avoids some old mistakes. The name is Pepsodent. These two great film combatants are embodied in it.

Some Pepsodent effects

Film coats are more readily combated. The teeth become highly polished, so film less easily adheres.

Pepsodent also multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

Thus Nature's great tooth-protecting agents are given manifold effect, while soap-and-chalk pastes reduce their power.

These results are bringing a new dental era in millions of homes the world over. And these whiter, safer, cleaner teeth mean life-long benefits. When you find them out, you will want your people to enjoy them.

They use it

The dainty people you see, who show white teeth, are probably users of Pepsodent. You see them everywhere. To women it means new beauty, new charm; to men new cleanliness. To children it means new protection against troubles you have had.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

A few days will convince you that this is a method essential to you and yours. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS HARTON

NANCY and Nick appeared at once at the Fairy Queen's palace when they heard she wished them to hunt for her lost automobile.

"My dear children," said she kindly, "You found my lost wand so quickly that I am sure you will discover my automobile just as soon."

"I do need it so!" Not that, my wings won't take me anywhere—it isn't that at all! It's just that, even if I am a fairy, I like to ride as well as anybody."

"Do you know who took it?" asked Nick.

"Sh!" whispered Her Royal Highness, looking cautiously around. "I'm afraid somebody will hear."

"Yes, I know, but it's a secret. It was Light Fingers. He steals every thing he gets his hands on. He's far worse than Flap-Dooodle."

"Of course, poor thing," sighed the Fairy Queen. "I suppose he can't help it. He has long thin fingers and he says they take things without his knowing it."

"The trouble is," she went on, "I don't think that Light Fingers stole my automobile for himself. He's so smart the other wicked fairies get him to do things for them."

"Twelve Tues, the Sorcerer: Eema Meema, the Magician, and Tricky Tricky, the Wizard, all employ him. I don't know who has my automobile now."

"Well, don't you worry," said Nancy promptly. "We'll start at once if you give us the Magic Green Shoes again."

"That's nice, dear, thank you," smiled the Queen, calling to some of her councilors to bring the little shoes that had taken the Twins on so many adventures.

The children slipped them on and wished themselves away on a new adventure.

How to Have a Beautiful Complexion

By Enid Bennett

Los Angeles, Cal.—I am often asked, "How can I have a beautiful complexion like yours?" and what should I use to keep my complexion at its best all the time. I guess I have tried everything for the complexion, but the very best beautifier I have found is Derwillo in combination with Liska cold cream. I use Liska cold cream to cleanse and soften the skin and Derwillo for the instant beauty it imparts. It's a combination hard to beat, and has become more popular with actresses than anything else I know of. If you would have a beautiful complexion just try Derwillo and Liska cold cream, and I think you will become as enthusiastic over these toilet preparations as I am.

Derwillo instantly gives your complexion a youthful, rose-white appearance. It softens and eliminates the skin making it glow with natural beauty. A single application will surprise you. The combination is wonderful for yellow skin, tan, sunburn and discolorations of all kinds.

Derwillo comes in 3 shades: flesh, white and brunette. Try flesh or brunette on your face and white on your neck, hands and arms. Derwillo stays on until you wash it off. Therefore perspiration does not affect it. Over a million discriminating girls and women use it in preference to face powders and other beautifiers. Add it to your daily toilet and you will agree that there is "nothing better." "Just as good," or "just like it." Sold at the toilet counters of all up to date drug or department stores including Flood & Blake and Fisher & Streich. Advertisement.

SHOEMAKER AND MORGAN FOUND GUILTY OF CONTEMPT

N. & W. Hearings In U. S. Court Concluded; Shoemaker Says He Will Go To Jail

BY E. L. SCHUSKY

CINCINNATI, Sept. 18.—John E. Morgan, local striker, was fined $100 and costs by United States Judge Peck in the United States District Court at Cincinnati yesterday afternoon, the court holding that Morgan had been guilty of contempt of court in that he had violated the temporary restraining order granted the Norfolk and Western railway. The specific charge against Morgan was that he called B. S. Fugitt abusive and profane names and made indecent remarks as Fugitt, his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Bree Jacobs were driving along a street at the terminals.

At the conclusion of the testimony in J. E. Shoemaker's case this morning Judge Peck found Shoemaker guilty of contempt and fined him $250 to stand committed to the Scioto county jail until paid.

When asked if he had any statement to make Shoemaker slowly rose to his feet and said: "I am glad to make such a sacrifice for such men and women as I have been fighting for. I will be glad to spend my time in jail as those will be happy days for me."

When it was stated that at the expiration of 30 days Shoemaker under pauper's oath would have to spend the remainder of his life in jail some one quickly remarked that he was the owner of an automobile according to his own testimony and that he could not sign a pauper's oath.

When the Shoemaker case was resumed this morning only two witnesses for the plaintiff were called: Clarence Enrich, an N. & W. clerk who testified how long Shoemaker had been employed by the N. & W. and Wm. Lyons, who lives across the street from the defendant and who testified that he had talked to Shoemaker about the injunction.

Witnesses for the defense were O. F. Strong, Edward Lewis and W. W. Frazier and they denied statements made by Kahne.

The Defense

Attorney Nicholas Klein of Cincinnati, who represented the defense, attempted to establish that Morgan was not mentally responsible for his acts, and that he did not violate the injunction.

Joseph Ray, boilermaker at the N. and W. shops; Fred Blisig, striker; Patrick Graham, striker; Ed. Kelly, and Brady Hicks, N. and W. firemen, all testified that they were standing along Norfolk street at the time the alleged remarks were said to have been made by Morgan, and that they heard no loud noise, and noticed no disturbance.

Frank Mootz, local garage man, testified that he served with Morgan in the army, and that they were stationed together at Camp Sherman. He stated that Morgan was "backward at learning," and was placed in the "awkward squad."

The plaintiff called G. S. Hewitt, a boiler maker foreman, who testified that Morgan was a man of ordinary intelligence, and he had worked with him for seven years, holding a position as boiler maker's helper, which was the job Morgan had at the time the strike was called.

Clarence Enrich, time keeper, testified that Morgan was a man of ordinary intelligence, who knew right from wrong. He said that he belonged to fraternal organizations to which Morgan belonged, and that the latter always acted as other men.

Judge Peck, before passing sentence on Morgan, said that he thought Morgan knew right from wrong, and that he seemed intelligent in recalling dates, and was thought intelligent enough to be assigned to picket duty by the strikers' organization.

"Although his mentality may be somewhat low," the court said, "it is evident that this man knows right from wrong. Were it not for his mental capacity, I would send him to jail."

In assessing the $100 fine, Judge Peck allowed Morgan 48 hours in which to pay up, and allowed him to sign a bond of $250.

In case Morgan cannot pay up, the court ordered him committed to the Scioto county jail.

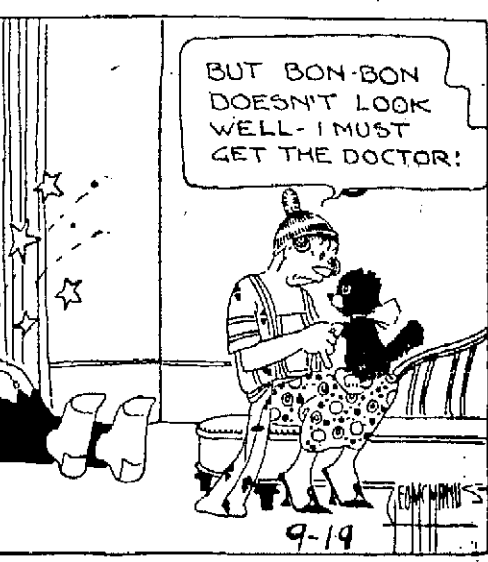

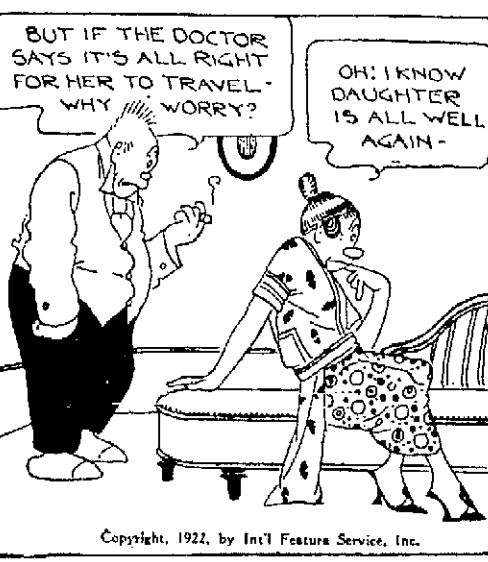

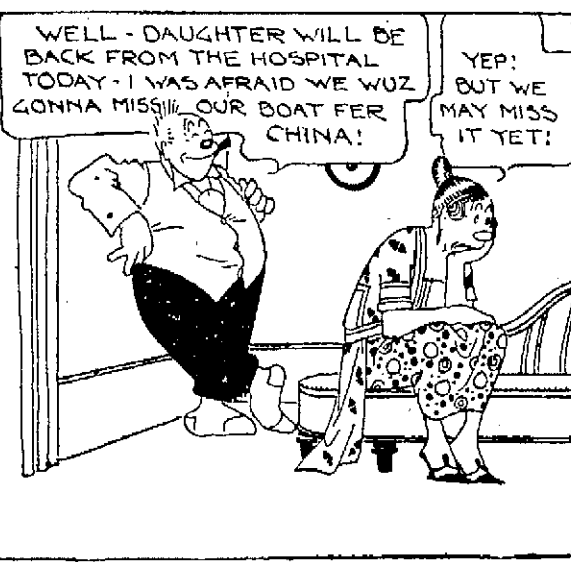

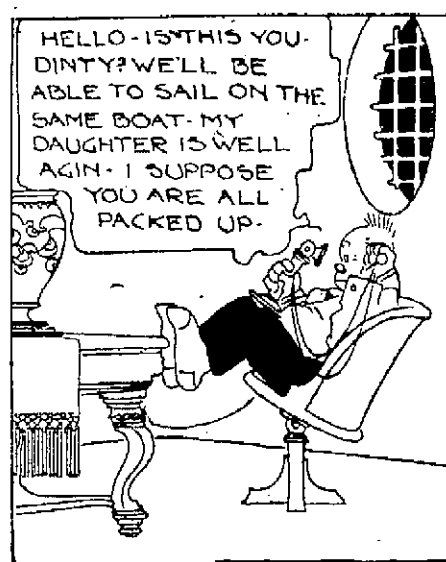

The Shoemaker Hearing

In the case of the United States against J. E. Shoemaker, E. L. Schusky was the first witness called by the government.

He testified that the temporary restraining order was published by the Morning Sun and the Daily Times, and that copies of these papers, carrying the story of the injunction were circulated generally in and about the city of Portsmouth.

George Handberg, train inspector and garage foreman; Special Agent Leo Eisenberg; Henry Kahne, operator at Clifford; and Chas. Frazier, N. and

W. guard, all testified for the government and told of Shoemaker and W. W. Frazier going to Clifford and asking Kahne to leave his job and come out in the strike.

In an attempt to impeach the testimony of Kahne, Mr. Klein alleged that while serving as a merchant policeman at New Boston, had shamed the New Boston police force, and had been arrested.

A confession, alleged to have been signed by Kahne, was introduced, and Kahne admitted that he had signed it. The confession dealt with the alleged untruths, and was, in substance, an admission by Kahne that the stories he had told were false.

The court adjourned until Tuesday morning at 9:30. Frazier was still on the stand when the adjournment was made.

The Injunction Case

At the opening of the hearing on the temporary injunction request, Attorney Henry T. Bannan for the railroad, introduced affidavits signed by D. K. Whitaker and W. M. White, purporting to show a conspiracy between the police and the strikers, the affidavits averring that the two men had been, what Mr. Bannan claims have been illegally arrested.

The court excluded them as evidence, ruling that they had no bearing on the particular case.

William Hughes, 516 Front street, an employee, told the court that a committee of striking shipmen called upon him and attempted to induce him to leave work.

Attorney Kline for the defense, introduced the affidavits of Harold Russell, Roy Russell, and Pearl McGraw, East End men, seeking to refute an affidavit filed by the prosecution last week in which it was set forth that Ed Salvaty and John Weaver were stopped at Eighth and Campbell.

Charles Hager and James Mitchell, of Market road, both disclaimed knowing of Byron Webb being called names or being threatened, as was charged in an affidavit sworn to by Webb and filed last week.

Marvin Clark, restaurant keeper; Gus Essares, confectionery store proprietor; Ora Clark, barber; John Waldeck, restaurant keeper; C. C. Watkins, restaurant keeper; and D. D. Colburn, all stated that the strikers were peaceful and quiet and that they had never seen or heard of any trouble on the part of strikers. All are business men in the vicinity of Gallia and Norfolk streets.

Clarence Stanley and Lawrence Weichman denied that Frank Heinen, call boy for the N. and W., had been stoned or threatened by small boys, in an affidavit presented by the defense yesterday.

Weichman admitted that he had held Heinen, but said that he did it because Heinen was "abusing the small boys" and that he held Heinen until the boys and away.

Gordon Hughes, in an affidavit, said that he never heard the remarks alleged to have been made against Guido Meacham.

Minor Coyas and W. B. Gardner averred that they did not stop Master R. G. Henley, but that Henley stopped them and indulged in conversation, discussing strike conditions.

The affidavits of Officers Stanley Schneider and Haley, with reference to chasing a man said to have been carrying concealed weapons, into the N. and W. yards, and being ordered out, were ruled out by the court.

W. C. Herman, local meat dealer; J. A. Bode, Gallia street merchant, both made affidavits stating that they had not been visited by a committee and threatened with boycott if they sold to the N. and W. or their employees. These affidavits were introduced in an attempt to refute evidence presented last week by the railroad tending to show that such threats had been made.

Chase On Stand

C. H. Chase, chairman of the Federated Shop Crafts, was placed on the stand. He told of being with the committee which visited William Hughes, 516 Front street, and stated that the committee went to get information, and did not ask him to join them, but advised him to remain at work.

Mr. Bannan, in cross-examination, asked him if all of the men working in the shops were union men, and if it was a "closed shop."

Mr. Chase replied in the negative. Then, after securing the permission of the court, Mr. Chase made a statement, in which he said that the strikers were "the highest type of American citizenship; were men faithful to their families and their church; and that they had always borne a good reputation."

He further said that he had been congratulated by business men and ministers of Portsmouth on the way the strikers had been conducting themselves, and that he felt it peculiar that they should be brought into court and charged as "outlaws."

Following Mr. Chase's arguments by counsel, the court handed down his decision.

Judge Peck's Statement

"To what extent are the individual instances of disorder chargeable to the organization and other defendants named in the bill?" The evidence shows a number of instances of multiple picketing for the purpose of making the strike effective and also a number of instances of disorder, threats and intimidation. It shows an effort by the leaders to keep order. I do not find a general agreement among the members of the union to assault or threaten those who work or forcibly interfere with the conduct of the railroad. There are twelve or fifteen hundred out on a strike and had there been such a general agreement disorders would have been greater.

"There is, however, an agreement to strike and of course, they acted together to effectuate the strike. Most of them kept themselves within the limits of the law, though a number of them exceeded legal limitations."

"I had hoped these matters would be settled that it were better to follow the judicial injunction, 'agree with this adversary while thou art in a way with him.'"

The court then issued the temporary injunction, which contains the same restrictions as the temporary restraining order, being in effect and, for the most part, in word, identical.

Over Third Of Government's Affidavits Are Thrown Out

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(By the Associated Press)—With more than one-third of the government's evidence in its injunction suit against striking railway shopmen ruled out by Judge James H. Wilkerson, attorney for B. M. Jewell and John Scott, strike leaders, continued their assault on Attorney General Daugherty's bill today.

Mr. Kleberg indicated today that he and his associate counsel planned to use the entire day in attacking remaining evidence with the possibility that they would continue their assault into Wednesday. But three days remain to finish the arguments before the temporary restraining order granted September 11 by Judge Wilkerson, expires at midnight Thursday.

Charge Premier Plotted New War In Near East

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(By the Associated Press)—The widely heralded "new war in the near east," which Prime Minister Lloyd George's political enemies charge him with deliberately invoking, has not begun and so far as appears to the public, is no nearer than it was yesterday.

Rail shares made the best recovery from the heaviness which spread over yesterday's list, gains of 1 to 2 points being recorded by Union Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Rock Island and Seaboard Air Line preferred. Oils and some of the steel shares also moved to higher ground. Improvement being noted in Cogen, Royal Dutch, Mexican Petroleum, United States Steel common, Lackawanna, Laclede Gas and Consolidated Gas. Adams Express and Beech Nut made substantial advances in the specialty group. Bethlehem and Vanadium steels were fractionally lower with Allied Chemical, Virginia Chemical, Continental Can and Famous Players. LOOKS LIKE YANKS WILL COP THE PENNANT; BEAT THE BROWNS BY PULLING BELATED RALLY

Reds Beaten
By The Giants

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Whitely Witt was the means of the Yankees' sensational ninth inning victory in the third contest with the St. Louis Americans. Witt's single drove McNally and Scott across with the runs that spelled defeat for the Browns. Witt also gave the Gothamites a margin of a game and a half as they started a heart-breaking defeat for the Browns.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for the Browns, leading American league pitcher for eight innings and a crushing blow to the pennant hopes of the Browns.

McNally and Severid at critical junctures in the eighth and ninth were factors in the St. Louis downfall.

George Sisler, the Browns' great first sacker, ended his consecutive hitting streak, falling to connect safely in four times at bat against the Yankees.

Ty Cobb pounded out his 200th hit of the season as the Tigers thrashed Washington 11 to 5.

The Giants, meanwhile, climbed another notch nearer the National league championship by taking the last game of the series from Cincinnati 7 to 2, while Pittsburgh was breaking even with Philadelphia in a double header, winning the first 11 to 3 but dropping the second 5 to 2. The world's champions face the Pirates at the Polo Grounds today in the first of a three game series with a lead of six full games. They need to win but seven of their thirteen games to clinch the title, even if Pittsburgh captures all of its eleven contests.

Although driven out of the box in the first, Eddie Roushett led his second victory for the Athletics over Cleveland in three days, 4 to 3. Leverage of Chicago blanked the Boston Red Sox 7 to 0 in the other American league contest.

A five run rally in the fourth gave St. Louis five runs, enough to defeat the Boston Braves 6 to 4, while Vance of Brooklyn was beaten by Chicago 4 to 3 after having won five straight previously from the Cubs.

NATIONAL
EVEN BREAK

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The Giants got an even break in a four game series with Cincinnati, winning Monday 7 to 2. The victory also gave the giants their season's series against the Reds 12 games to 10. As Pittsburgh divided a double header with the Philadelphia team, the champions increased their lead to six full games. Game was easy for the Giants, who lamed hits in the second and the sixth for all their runs. Scott held the Reds safe throughout.

THE PROFITEER

MORE power to the arm that is reaching for the profiteer seeking to mulct the public because of a disaster of industry. There is no more execrable creature in the land today than this type, and by the same token nothing more popular right now could be done by the officials of government than to take steps to balk his designs, whether undertaken in an individual or a corporate capacity. At the moment it is the likelihood of attempted gouging in the matter of coal that impels official action, but the occasion makes opportune some reflection on the case of the profiteer as a species.

Profiteering, in the present general acceptance of the term, was a creation of the world war, and having gotten away with it so successfully when the country was ready to stand many things that were not as they should be, the disciples of the inflection have thought that they could keep up the practice for all the future. They proposed to capitalize the minor as well as the greater calamities affecting the country and exact toll on what appeared to be their own misfortunes as well as the public's. It is high time that a halt was called, and if the contempt held by public opinion and the moderate efforts of public servants to safeguard the interests of the population as a whole be not enough something more drastic is in order.

The theory upon which the profiteering system is predicated is a paraphrase of the well-understood and now trite saying that "the public pays the tax." The public is the "goat" whatever happens—the innocent bystander that gets it in the neck while contesting elements are engaged in industrial warfare, and that is expected to go into its pockets with great complicity when strife is settled, to make good the losses of revenue suffered while the struggle continued and add something to boot. The attitude of certain profiteering classes and groups with respect to the public, not only when there are strikes and the like, but in normal times, has been akin to that of the confidence man toward what he terms the "suckers." And the public has been easy. It has protested—and paid. It has been a worm; and it is time that the worm turned.

Public opinion is a tremendous power when duly concentrated, and it can amplify the good work inaugurated by public officials in connection with an existing situation by putting the brand of a parish on profiteers in general—the ignominious mark of a practice that becomes more detestable with the lapse of time from the period of its inception and greatest flourish.

Paris Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

PARIS, Sept. 19.—The wicked night life of Paris flaunts its ballyhoo along the Boulevard des Capucines. Every few steps the leering face of a guide edges out of the shadows to inquire of the tourist: "A guide Meieu? See the Mystery Dance, the Den of the Apache! Ver wicked."

The guides are used to rebuffs. They are evidently detected by the voraciously cosmopolitan. When one approached an Englishman, he turned with, "A guide for what? Why you poor blunderer, I've seen more than you will ever see." The guide merely shrugged and turned away.

Peddling wickedness in Paris has its hardships. In an easy catch. Having dined well I sought a little adventure and so I bargained to see the "Mystery Dance."

It was under a cinema in the neighborhood and the man in the seat adjoining said he came from Red Wing, Minn.

The dance was merely a vulgar anatomical display which one sees on any circus lot. It is "the feeder." At its finish the announcer tells in whispers of Broken English of the den of the Apache which opens at midnight in the Montmartre.

This proved similar to the New York Chinatown opium dens for those who ride the rubber-neck wagons. The den was in a cellar. It was a staged affair with hired men and women dancing Apache dances. The peace of resistance was the appearance of the Queen of the Paris Underworld.

She entered with a lowering of lights and appeared a trifle bored by it all. It was late and no doubt she would have a lot of breakfast dishes to do when she got back to her job in someone's kitchen in the morning.

For those who wished to remain at 50 francs a head, it was announced that at five o'clock "the down service" would be presented at a place on the banks of the Seine. This was to be the last word in wickedness. I didn't stay, but the man from Red Wing did. He said as long as he had lived in Red Wing he had never seen such wickedness. And that I think aptly describes the wicked night life of Paris for the tourist.

Every Tuesday on the Place de la Madeleine the public flower market is held. Beautiful bunches of flowers are sold for 50 centimes—about a nickel. The love of the Parisian for flowers is displayed. The poor come from all sections to wait for the close of the market when the flowers that are left are given away. One often sees street sweepers with flowers in their coat lapels. Children carry them tenderly until they are entirely wilted.

The three best high-priced cafes in Paris, by my notion are, in their order named, Ciro's, the Cafe de Paris and Chateaux de Madrid. The most interesting dinner, however, is served at a little place on the left bank of the Seine along the rue des Moutets. It is a goose dinner. The goose is choked to death to retain all the blood, plucked and then cooked before the patron on a revolving table. There is a sauce for the goose that is named after the wife of an American doctor who did heroic work for the wounded soldiers during the war.

In a kiosk shop in the Place Vendôme all the salesgirls are American. They came over to do war work and have cast their lot with the Parisians. Some have been home in six years and all are to marry Frenchmen. "Paris gets in the blood," one told me. "After a few years one cannot be happy elsewhere."

If Helen had said words like these To Paris, where would Homer be? "Paris dear, mere fallacies Will never win your love-green plea You'd be a dead weight at a tea With such a prosy, sluggish brain. You do not think romantically Nor vibrate in my cosmic plane."

Just think if thus had Heloise Misread Albiard, i.e.: "Go on and rave just all you please, I fear I simply can't agree. You know for people such as we A tandem life would be a strain. For you don't dote on poetry, Nor vibrate in my cosmic plane."

And what if Mayme should think that she's Too good for soda-squirts to see? "No, Egbert, many family trees Sport minds untrained to your degree. You have most undeniably, The pink-skirt complex, I maintain. You don't know Wells, nor read H. D., Nor vibrate in my cosmic plane."

Why Ship Is "She"

Here are some answers to the question: "Why do they call a ship 'she'?"

If you ever tried to steer one you wouldn't ask. Because it takes so long to get them ready to go anywhere. They need almost as much dolling up and painting as any woman you ever saw.

A ship's gotta have its own way or it won't go. Ships always come off the ways backward like the members of a certain sex alighting from the street cars.

It costs so much to keep one in operation.

They are always calling at some place or another.

Because shipbuilders can't live without them.

Because they are held together with steel.

Because they frequently toss their noses in the air.

Rules For Bureau Movie Picture Contest

With the publishing of the rules and regulations governing contests in the motion picture contest launched by the Bureau of Community Service, the way for contestants is made clear for the submitting of motion picture stories telling about the work for the Bureau.

Remember that action is the most important part of any scenario—while stories may be told in words and plays with the spoken words, motion pictures can only be told in pantomime—so tell the story in action—let your characters explain to the audience what the story is all about by what they do—not what they say.

The Bureau publishes today, accounts of three different bits of service accomplished recently by three of its departments. All of these stories have appeared in the Portsmouth papers and those interested to get detailed and complete information are referred to the files at the Times building.

The first example deals with a jail wedding. Sounds romantic, does it not, and it is just as full of romance as the stories your favorite movie stars portray, except that this is the truth and that it really happened. In this story, the Bureau wants you to bring out the facts that through the Department of Girls Welfare, Miss Hubert gives deserving girls, even those with jail records, a chance to go straight. A girl was arrested, and sentenced to be sent back to Delaware. Miss Hubert was given charge of the case and the girl was going back the next day. Her lover appears and pleads to marry her, promising he will see she leads a different life.

The police put the responsibility up to Miss Hubert, who talks with the couple and gives her consent to the marriage. The marriage is performed in jail and the happy couple leave with visions of a new and wholesome life ahead.

Here is a story where Miss Clare in charge of Department of Relief, saved an old man and woman, together with their boy of 15, from the clutches of a scheming, unscrupulous woman, who persuaded, through the offers of riches to sell their meager holdings and journey back with her to a mythical farm and riches.

The old man sold the meager possessions of a life time, and the four journeyed by street car to Portsmouth, from West Virginia. Cold, weary, only a dollar between them and starvation, the police found them after they had spent all night on the river front, and the Bureau of Community Service was notified. Miss Clare investigated, found the woman had lied and was leading the family into conditions worse than starvation, sent the family back to their home, and sent the woman, who had lied to gain her own selfish end, back where she belonged, thus saving Portsmouth from supporting four public charges.

Here is another idea, as thrilling and full of possibilities for dramatization as the greatest movie thriller. It is the story of how Scout Executive Henderson became a boy's friend at the most crucial period in his life, and is leading him, by interest in Boy Scouts, to turn his back on an evil environment and dangerous companions.

This boy lived with his mother and father in worst environment. One evening a man insulted his mother, a scrap followed, a shot, somebody fell mortally wounded, and the boy was arrested on the charge of murder. The trial acquitted the boy. This boy who was a Boy Scout, remembered the creed he had sworn to obey, and prayed to God if he was cleared of the charge, he would live the life of a true Boy Scout. After his acquittal, he sought Scoutmaster Henderson.

"I'm going to be a first class scout," he said, "I'm through with the sort of life I've seen lived. I want to grow into a man folks won't be ashamed to speak to on the street."

The motion picture contest of the Bureau of Community Service is open to any man, woman or child, in Portsmouth or vicinity, who wishes to compete.

Rule 1.—Scenarios may be submitted in ink or typewritten. Only one side of the paper can be used.

Rule 2.—Every script must be accompanied by the name and address of the author, enclosed in a separate envelope or attached to the manuscript.

Rule 3.—Scenarios may be submitted in synopsis form, but will stand a better chance of acceptance if prepared according to the articles on scenario writing, which will appear in the newspaper.

Rule 4.—Scenes may be laid anywhere in Portsmouth, but exterior locations will be given preference.

Rule 5.—Every manuscript must deal with the activities of only one department. The number of scenarios that may be submitted will not be limited.

Rule 6.—The Bureau of Community

Service reserves the right to reject any or all entries.

Rule 7.—The producers reserve the right to alter and change either continuity or action of script to conform with the production requirements.

Rule 8.—All manuscripts are to be the property of the Bureau of Community Service.

Rule 9.—The contest will close at noon September 30. No manuscripts will be accepted after 12 o'clock on that day.

Rule 10.—All scenarios must be addressed to the Scenario Director, Bureau of Community Service, Room 25, First National Bank Building, Portsmouth, O.

Prizes and judges will be announced later.
